

Town of Islip

Citation

April 10, 2014

WHEREAS: Individuals who commit themselves to their town and community to ensure the improvement and success of future generations deserve special recognition; and

WHEREAS: The Student volunteers from Farmingdale State College's Construction Design Department, is a group of 28 who deserve praise for their outstanding efforts. In honor of National Volunteer Week, these students began to prepare existing-condition drawings for the Town's eight recreation centers under the direction of Professor Orla Smyth LoPiccolo.; and

WHEREAS: They will be visiting the Town of Islip Recreation Centers in teams to photograph, sketch, and measure buildings. These students will be returning to the classroom to draft their buildings in plans, sections, and elevations. They will also examine the building envelope and suggest energy saving improvements in construction detail form; and

WHEREAS: The Town of Islip celebrates the spirit and determination of volunteers yearly, but especially during National Volunteer Week. These 28 students from Farmingdale State College have gone above and beyond in effort to help improve our Town and better it for all of our community to enjoy; and

NOW, THEREFORE WE, THE GOVERNING BODY OF THE TOWN OF ISLIP, do hereby honor the Farmingdale State College's Construction Design Department for their exemplary service and devotion to our community. We truly appreciate their efforts and wish them continued success in all they strive to achieve
